Heavy rain sweeps state

Ohioans battle flash flooding

By The Associated Press

Heavy rains that caused flash flooding in southern and eastern Ohio Sunday gradually ended during the night as a cold front moved steadily across the state.

However, numerous roads were closed today around the state and high water levels posed a threat to some residents in low-lying areas.

Showers were confined early today to extreme northern and eastern sections of the state.

Total rainfall, according to the National Weather Service at Cleveland, was over an inch in most areas of the state since it began Saturday night. Some sections measures three inches.

Cooler air followed the rainfall, with temperatures forecast to drop into the 40s over most of the state today. Low readings tonight are expected in the 20s.

Members of the Licking County Civil Defense unit went door-to-door through a section of southeastern Newark recommending that 200 residents evacuate their homes because of flooding along the North Fork of the Licking River.

In Wayne County, sheriff's deputies also canvassed threatened areas urging people to leave their homes.

Small streams also spilled over their banks in Holmes, Coshocton, Guernsey, Muskingum, Noble, Vinton, Athens and Meigs counties, covering some roads with water but causing no evacuations.

The National Weather Service said continued rain overnight could make the situation more serious.

Landslides forced Cincinnati's busy Columbia Parkway to be closed Sunday, but city workers expected to have the highway reopened early today.

Officials said the Ohio River at Cincinnati was expected to crest short of flood stage.

The weather service advised residents along the Scioto River south of Columbus, particularly at Chillicothe, Circleville and Piketon, to be on the alert for rising waters.

The river surpassed the 11-foot flood stage at Larue Sunday night and overnight was expected to go over the flood stage of 10 feet at Prospect, 14 feet at Circleville and 16 feet at Piketon.

The Scioto is not expected to reach the 16-foot flood stage at Chillicothe until Tuesday morning, the weather service said, explaining that the illogical occurrence results from the tributary system.

Crests are expected along the Scioto Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning.

The weather service said the Sandusky River was to reach the 13-foot flood stage at Upper Sandusky overnight and crest at 14½ feet late this afternoon. At Tiffin, the river was likely to reach the eight-foot flood stage this morning and crest at 8.9 feet Tuesday morning.

The next boosters club meeting will be held at 8 p.m. March 25. . .

WATER, WATER, EVERYWHERE — The parking area surrounding Moore's Dream House, CCC Highway-W, was typical of many areas of the county when it flooded Sunday night. Water levels ranged from three to 10 inches around the store, and the stockroom inside also flooded. Water covered many sections of highway and state crews placed a number of "high water" signs throughout the county. Many Washington C.H. area yards and basements suffered the same fate as the furniture store, and Paint Creek overflowed its banks in several places.

Paint Creek overflows its banks

City receives 3.43-inch rain

Area road crews and county residents were the victims of the weekend downpour.

Nearly three and a half inches of rain pelted Fayette County, flooding roads and basements. Officials in the Washington C. H. police and street departments fell under a barrage telephone calls from residents whose street lights were out or basements were flooded. The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. was informed that two large areas of customers lost phone service Sunday.

IT RAINED intermittently throughout the weekend and stormed Sunday afternoon and night. Several accidents were attributed to the weather conditions as was one fire.

Coyt A. Stookey, official Washington C. H. weather observer, measured a total of 3.43 inches of precipitation in a 48-hour period ending at 7 a.m. Monday.

According to totals received at Stookey's observation post at 134 E. Ohio Ave., Washington C. H. received 1.02 inches on Saturday and another 2.41 inches Sunday.

The Dayton Power and Light Co. reported four fuses were blown when lightning struck power lines, and street lights went out in some areas of the city. George Winkle, manager of the Washington C. H. office, said he was very happy that damage was not more extensive.

Bruce Galloway, commercial manager of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., reported that customers along U.S. 35-S just outside the city limits lost telephone service for several hours early Sunday. A few hours later residents in the area of Wagner Way were without the use of their phones. The major lines were repaired by nightfall, and he said there were only spot outages remaining Monday.

Ohio Department of Transportation crews were busy placing pot flares and high water signs in several areas Sunday. Some 30 sections of road were covered by heavy water, but none were reported closed. Gene Fitzpatrick, garage superintendent, said the crews were picking up the signs and flares Monday, and no report of harm damage would be available until the water receded.

Bill Duncan, city street department superintendent, reported that his men were primarily involved with pumping water that flooded intersections and basements of area residents. "Sewer lines here are not capable of handling such torrents of rain," he said. Although it appeared for some time that the intersection of Leesburg and Oakland avenues would have to be closed, crews were able to keep ahead of the water and no streets were impassible. Many areas of Paint Creek overflowed the banks.

Some drainage problems nearly closed sections of Parrott Station and Creamer roads. Water levels on several county roads were high, but all could be negotiated.

Jaworski urges

Nixon confession

CHICAGO (AP) — Richard M. Nixon should do some soul-searching and tell the American people the truth about Watergate, says former Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

"I would hope that former President Nixon would do the same soul-searching that every individual should make when he's had experiences as tragic as were his," said Jaworski, who was in Chicago to address the midyear meeting of the American Bar Association.

Pentagon boosts enlistment period from 2 to 3 years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's manpower chief says there is "very small risk" that recruiting for the all-volunteer force will be set back by a new order increasing minimum service enlistments from two to three years.

"We're confident we can continue to make our strength and keep our quality up," Asst. Secretary of Defense William K. Brehm said.

Brehm spoke in an interview after Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger announced Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers" that minimum enlistments will be raised from two to three years.

Pentagon sources said Schlesinger overrode service objections and ordered the changes into effect by the new fiscal year in July. Certain Army generals and Navy admirals were reported to be concerned that the longer enlistments could make it difficult to get enough recruits when the recession ends.

Sources hinted that Schlesinger might push for a four-year floor on enlistments in all the services sometime in the future.

Army and Navy officials were understood to have expressed concern about the effect of longer enlistments when the economy improves.

"I think probably we can make our quotas as long as the recession lasts," one senior officer said. "But I have serious reservations about being able to meet our needs if the economy improves substantially."

Brehm said longer enlistments will reduce manpower turnover, leading to a higher experience level and better combat efficiency.

He calculated that the armed services get only about 18 months of useful service out of a new two-year enlistee because six months is used up with training, leave and travel from training bases to permanent units.

There also will be money savings because "there will be fewer men to bring on active duty, to train and to move" during any one year, Brehm said.

"We estimate that over the long term it will be possible to reduce enlistment requirements by about 45,000 men a year," Brehm said.

In addition, 45,000 fewer men will go out of the service each year, he said. So he projected a benefit totaling 90,000 men by the end of fiscal 1978.

Trustees approve agency

Commissioners to ink revised disaster pact

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners reported Monday they would immediately sign a revised resolution for a county-wide disaster services agency after receiving word that the Fayette County Trustees Association had unanimously approved the agency.

The county trustees association voted unanimously last week to endorse the agency following an informative session at their regular meeting by disaster services director Ralston M. Smith, according to president Jack Cubbage.

The county commissioners declined signing the resolution in January until at least nine representatives from the 10 townships and four incorporated villages of the county had submitted their approval of the need for a county disaster services agency.

The commissioners reported at that time they voted to postpone approval of the agency in order that their vote would not influence the decision of the other county organizations.

Board chairman Ray Warner said the commissioners would approve the agency as soon as Smith submitted a contract for their signatures. Smith said the program must be approved and a tentative budget submitted to the state by March 1 in order to receive federal funding for the disaster services agency.

federal government will contribute in financing the county-wide program.

In other business Monday, the commissioners reported they had been in contact with Fayette County engineer Charles P. Wagner and discussed the present roads and streams situation in the county following the heavy weekend rains.

Warner said Wagner stated that although water was standing on several county roads, no roads had been closed and the water was diminishing. Wagner also reported that no washouts or damage was done to bridges around the county.

The commissioners received bids for two tandem-axle dump trucks, one automobile and one pickup truck for the county engineers office and the Kellough Ditch improvement project Monday morning and were scheduled to conduct their semi-annual inspection of the Fayette County Children's Home on Ohio 38-NE Monday afternoon.

On the calendar, the commissioners are expected to receive bids for the Harry Flint (Post) Ditch at 11 a.m. March 4 and conduct the final hearing of the Compton Creek ditch project at 1:30 p.m. March 10.

Plaintiffs record one win, one loss in Hi-Y project

Student juries decide two mock cases

By GEORGE MALEK

The plaintiffs record Saturday was one win, one loss. A student and his father who attempted to recover $5 million in damages for an injury allegedly received at a high school football game was turned down, while a woman injured in an accident at a local store was awarded an imaginary $40,000.

Student juries deliberated both cases after staged testimony had been elicited by student attorneys in two mock civil suits in Fayette County Common Pleas Court. Judge Evelyn W. Coffman assisted the youths in Hi-Y Club-sponsored project by donating her day off to preside over the trials as did four local attorneys who provided professional assistance for the student attorneys.

The $40,000 award was made to Sue Stapleton, who was supposed to have been injured while shopping at Buckeye Mart. According to the testimony concocted by Washington Senior High School Hi-Y Club members, she was frightened by a youth trying out a pellet rifle. When the youth pulled the trigger of the rifle, the noise startled the plaintiff, and she was injured as she tripped over a stereo unit left protruding in the aisle by a clerk. The clerk was portrayed by Doug Maddux.

According to the testimony, an employee of the store had left a gun case unlocked, and the boy (played by Donnie Smuin) removed a pellet rifle to test it. Two men, Jeff DeWeese and Jeff Estep, who were shopping in the store testified that they believed the gun case had not been locked. Rick Binzel, a former student in Washington C.H., testified as the physician who treated the plaintiff.

The doctor said the woman had lost the use of one arm which made it impossible for her perform her duties as a professional typist. For her $27,000 in medical bills and loss of wages as well as damages, the student jury made an award of $40,000.

The plaintiff was represented by Jeff Lemaster and Dan Rodgers, student attorneys who were counseled by Washington C.H. city solicitor Gary D. Smith. Also testifying for the plaintiff

Love story now ended

PLACERVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Jean Gibboney, whose husband offered to sell one of his own eyes to pay for her medical care, is dead of cancer.

Mrs. Gibboney, 54, of nearby Grass Valley, died Saturday. The malignancy was discovered only last week by doctors who were preparing to operate on her jaw.

Her husband, Herbert, attracted national attention last month when he took out an ad in the local daily newspaper, the Grass Valley Union, and offered to sell the cornea of one of his eyes for $35,000. He said he needed the money to pay for a bone transplant to restore part of his wife's jaw damaged by a tumor.

The former tavern owner claimed he lived on a monthly $210 Social Security check and was unable to work because of a heart condition.

After the ad appeared, Pioneer Community Hospital and two doctors offered their services free. However, the surgery was canceled when the cancer was discovered.

Deaths, Funerals

Donald E. Graves

Services for Donald E. (Tete) Graves, 47, of 219 Wagner Way, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Grace United Methodist Church with the Rev. Allen Puffenberger and Rev. Mark Dove officiating.

Mr. Graves, an employee of the National Cash Register Co. in Washington C.H. for 21 years, and of Mac Tools Inc., for the last three years, died at 5:10 p.m. Saturday in Grant Hospital, Columbus, where he had been a patient four days. He had been in failing health since 1971. Born in Greenfield, he spent most of his life in Washington C.H., and was a member of Grace United Methodist Church.

He is survived by his wife, Jeddy West Graves; his father and step-mother, Carl and Garnet Graves, 204 W. Temple St.; and two nephews, Robert Graves, Greenfield, and William Graves, Hillsboro. A brother, Leonard, died in 1969.

Friends may call at the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Washington C.H., after 4 p.m. Monday and until noon Tuesday, then at the church until time of services. Burial will be in Washington Cemetery. Friends, if they wish, may contribute to the Heart Fund.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 4 until 8 p.m. today. Committal services will be held at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Mock trials

was Scott Lewis, who appeared as a character witness.

Testifying for the defendants were Don Gibbs (school official as a character witness), Jim Vess (portraying the defendant's father), and Mike Provost (playing the part of the store manager). The attorneys were Rory Souther and John Walker, who were assisted by John Bryan, who established a law practice here more than a year ago.

NO AWARD of damages was made in the other suit. The jury concluded that the testimony did not support a father's claim that he and his son were entitled to $5 million because of an injury at a Washington C.H. football game. The boy and his father had sought damages from the cheerleaders, the cheerleading advisor, the boosters club, and the Washington C.H. Board of Education.

The boy (Johnny Rhoads) and his cousin (Brian Cook) testified that he had been hit in the eye with a plastic football. The father (council member John Rhoads) said the injury had resulted in numerous medical expenses and entitled the family to damages. Donnie Smith portrayed the physician who treated the boy.

Appearing for the defense were Mary Ann Rudduck, a cheerleader; Chester Dean, an adult official with the Washington C.H. boosters club; and Mrs. Nikki Eyre, WSHS cheerleading advisor. They explained the purpose of the football giveaway and the chain of authority which permitted them to implement it.

At the conclusion of the testimony, defense attorneys Tim O'Flynn and David Garringer asked for a directed dismissal because the participants in a school-sponsored activity could not be sued unless malice was shown. They were assisted in their preparation by assistant Fayette County Prosecuting attorney John H. Roszmann.

The jury returned with a finding for the defendants, and Judge Coffman announced that had the case been presented in actuality, she would have directed a verdict in the defendant's favor. She said the school and its representatives were immune from prosecution for negligence. She added that had there been proof of malicious intent on the part of the school, they could be sued.

The plaintiff's case had been presented by student attorneys David Mustine and Brian Connell, who were assisted by attorney Pat Harkins.

Both bases will be submitted to the Ohio Supreme Court for appeal rulings in April.

Hi-Y Club representatives said they were grateful to those who contributed their time to help club members better understand the workings of the judicial system. Their thanks included the Supreme Court justices who have offered to review their appeals as well as the many local professions who helped them prepare and present the cases.

Fewer Americans see depression

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Although most Americans still believe the economy will get worse in the next six months, the proportion who feel so has declined sharply since last November, according to the Gallup Poll.

In the latest Gallup survey, 56 per cent said the economic situation in the United States would get worse in the next six months, while 30 per cent predicted it would get better. Ten per cent said the situation would remain the same, while 4 per cent had no opinion. Last November, 71 per cent predicted a turn for the worse.

Jury being seated for burglary trial

Selection of jurors began Monday morning in Fayette County Common Pleas Court for the trial of James R. Forsythe, 33, of 703 E. Paint St., who is charged with two counts of burglary. He is an alleged accomplice in the two burglaries for which a Columbus man was sentenced to a prison term of five to 30 years earlier this month.

Forsythe was indicted on burglary charges stemming from burglaries at the Washington C.H. Elks Lodge, 222 N. Main St., and Associated Plumbers, CCC Highway-W, last September. A third person arrested in connection with the break-ins is scheduled for trial at a later date. An earlier trial at which all three were to be tried together was declared a mistrial after illegal testimony was given by a police officer during examination by the assistant county prosecuting attorney.

Additional charges of possession of burglary tools and possession of marijuana had been originally filed against Forsythe. However, the matter of the tools was decided when Judge Evelyn W. Coffman sustained a motion by defense counselor John Connors to dismiss the charge.

Forsythe allegedly participated in the burglary of the Associated Plumbers and then traveled to the Elks lodge where he was apprehended by Washington C.H. police who were reportedly acting on information supplied by a police informant. The informant, Paul Hurlies, 629 E. Paint St., was the prime witness at the trial of Paul R. Spence, 36, Columbus, who was found guilty and sentenced Feb. 5, and he is again expected to provide the foundation of the state's case.

Selection of jurors continued into the noon hour as Connors and county prosecutors James A. Kiger and John H. Roszmann questioned prospective jurors as to possible prejudice concerning the case.

Judge Coffman, who denied the defendant's request for a change of venue, is presiding.

Postal changes ignore protests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's new postmaster general says he will go ahead with a controversial delivery system if it makes service more efficient, despite a strike threat by letter carriers.

"If it would result in the elimination of a number of jobs but maintain good postal service for the American public, then I think we'd have an obligation to implement it," Benjamin F. Bailar said in an interview.

The controversy concerns the Letter Carrier Route Evaluation System, developed to measure individual carriers' performance so that more efficient routes can be established.

The basis of the system is a computerized study of every carrier's route to measure the number of letters delivered, miles walked and other logistics, including the number of dogs on the route. The system was tried last year in Kokomo, Ind., where the number of carriers was reduced from 25 to 23 as a result. The same system is now in effect in Portland, Ore., and thus far has led to the addition of one carrier there.

The Postal Service says it is testing the system. The letter carriers have voted to strike if the system is actually put into effect. Their union claims it would eliminate 15,000 jobs and overwork the carriers.

Senate panel eyes transportation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Hearings begin in the Senate Judiciary Committee this afternoon on Gov. James A. Rhodes $1.6 billion transportation bond issue.

Chairman David L. Headley, D-28 Barbours, said he hoped Rhodes himself would appear but was "sure" the governor will be represented by Transportation Director Richard D. Jackson.

Sen. William H. Mussey, R-14 Batavia, is chief sponsor of the proposal which, if approved by the legislature and by voters on Ohio's June 3 primary ballot, would increase the state's seven cents a gallon gasoline tax by nine-tenths of a cent.

An even bigger bond issue proposal, being asked by Rhodes as part of a four-point package he wants on the ballot, comes up again tonight in the House Ways and Means Committee. It would increase the four per cent sales tax by seven-tenths of a cent to raise $2.5 billion for massive inner city improvements and port projects on the Ohio River and Lake Erie, among other things.

The legislature faces a March 5 statutory deadline for getting Rhodes' four proposals on the ballot. It will be a tight schedule, and some of the committee chairmen involved have said frankly they think there may not be enough time.

Jury selection under way in Gurney bribery trial

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Jury selection begins today in the trial of former Sen. Edward Gurney on charges of bribery and conspiracy.

U.S. District Court Judge Ben Krentzman has ordered a large pool of prospective jurors to be on hand to speed selection of a 12-member panel and five alternates.

The number of co-defendants on trial with Gurney has dwindled from 6 to 4, with two former campaign aides granted severances.

All, including Gurney, are charged with conspiring to collect a $233,000 slush fund from builders who sought Gurney's influence in government-sponsored housing projects and mortgage insurance.

Gurney is also charged with bribery, unlawful compensation and four counts of making false statements to the grand jury that indicted him last July after a year-long probe.

He is the first incumbent senator to be indicted since 1924.

After the indictment, he withdrew from a race for re-election under pressure from the Republican party, saying there was no "sensible or sound way" to conduct the race while facing a major trial.

Gurney, 60, was former President Richard M. Nixon's strongest ally on the Senate Watergate Committee.

Facing trial with Gurney are: James L. Groot of Washington, Gurney's former administrative assistant; Joseph Bastien, former head of Gurney's Winter Park field office; K. Wayne Swiger, suspended Tampa Federal Housing Administration director, and Ralph Koontz, a former Jacksonville FHA official.

Stock prices in selloff

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street finally got its long-awaited selloff today, sparked by some adverse economic news from Washington.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 11.66 at 738.11, and losers held a better than 2-1 lead over gainers in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said the sharp decline in prices today was a natural correction to the market's sharp 1975 advance. From Dec. 6 until the market's opening today, the Dow index had climbed 172.17 points without a significant retreat.

As the market opened today, the government reported the fifth straight monthly decline in new orders for durable goods during January.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index dropped .32 to 77.41.

Glomers moved lower in profit taking. Copper stock prices sank on pessimistic predictions of future earnings.

means of financing. Headley said he has "considerable doubt" that the nine-tenths of a cent hike in the gasoline tax would be sufficient to pay off $1.6 billion in transportation bonds.

Tablack said while he is keeping an "open mind" on the sales tax hike, he thinks some Democrats will propose other means of financing the $2.5 billion bond issue. They have mentioned a possible hike in the state income tax for higher income families, as well as a boost in the corporate income or franchise tax, the Mahoning County lawmaker said.

Headley, noting weekend news reports indicating there could be an increase of about 13 cents a gallon in the federal gasoline tax, said Sunday it could develop that the proposed hike in the state tax would be "insignificant." However, he added that "none of my constituents is clamoring for it."

Offshore oil plans at stake

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration's plans to open the Atlantic to oil exploration are at stake before the Supreme Court on a suit to affirm federal ownership of offshore areas.

Arguments were scheduled to be heard today by the court. The Ford administration has appealed for a quick ruling because the suit is blocking plans to lease 3.5 million acres of the Middle Atlantic to oil companies.

The Interior Department has agreed to delay its leasing program until the suit is settled. The agreement already has forced the department to withdraw one invitation for oil companies to recommend areas for leasing, a preliminary step in the program.

The Justice Department filed the suit in 1969 after Maine announced plans to lease 3.3 million acres of Atlantic mineral rights more than three miles offshore. The suit named all of the Atlantic Coast states as defendants, but Florida was severed because its case involves complicated boundary questions.

FIVE-CAR COLLISION — Four of the five autos involved in this accident, which occurred at 2:18 p.m. Saturday in the parking lot of Helfrich's Food Store, corner of Delaware and Western avenues, are pictured above. Washington C.H. police stated the accident resulted when a car driven by Vernon L. Alexander, 80, Bloomingburg, struck a car driven by George A. Palmer, 82, Good Hope, while backing from his parking space and then shot forward into a parked car belonging to Elizabeth S. Honar, of Bloomingburg, knocking it into the parked car beside it owned by John M. Spangler, Rt. 1, and causing the Spangler auto to hit a grocery cart and another parked auto belonging to Helen F.

Kearns, 689 Blackstone St. The injured pedestrian, Bino O. Rude, 83, Rt. 1, was standing by the shopping cart at the time of the collision and was knocked around between the two autos flanking her. Police stated she was not pinned, but was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by ambulance for the treatment of pain in her left hip and elbow and right foot. She was later released. Police charged Alexander (who said his accelerator pedal had stuck) with reckless operation. Palmer was charged with driving with an expired driver's license when his license was checked by police for the report.

Rash of traffic mishaps probed

A rash of traffic mishaps, including many hit-skip incidents, were reported by both Washington C.H. police and the Fayette County Sheriff's Department over the weekend.

Cars driven by Marianna E. Kessler, 58, Dayton, and Elizabeth Horney, 73, of 1017 Gregg St., were severely damaged at the intersection of North and Court streets, when they collided at 8:50 p.m. Sunday, city police reported. Ms. Kessler was taken by police cruiser to Fayette Memorial Hospital and treated for a lacerated left eye and the two passengers in the Horney vehicles: Marie Jones, 53, and Pamela S. Jones, 18, both of 316 Sixth St., were also treated; Marie, for pain in the right hip and Pamela for headache and pain in the right hand. All three women were released after treatment. Ms. Horney was not injured, but was charged by police with failure to yield right of way.

A car driven by Richard F. Watson Jr., 21, of Reesville, was demolished at 1:15 a.m. Sunday, when it traveled left of center on North Street, near the Rose Avenue intersection, and struck a Dayton Power and Light utility pole.

Watson was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by ambulance and treated for a forehead laceration, a laceration to his right hand and abrasions of his right thigh. He was released. Police cited him for reckless operation.

An auto driven by Howard E. Whiteside, 17, of 927 Briar Ave., was demolished and his passenger, Wendell Allen, 14, of 522 Fifth St., injured, at 7:50 p.m. Sunday, when it traveled through water on Camp Grove Road, one and two-tenths of a mile south of U.S. 35, and slid broadside into a fence belonging to Robert Rife, Ohio 753, and then struck a Dayton Power and Light pole, snapping it off. The auto then turned over on its top and came to rest.

Allen was admitted to Fayette Memorial Hospital for injuries sustained in the wreck: lacerations of the scalp, chin, knee, shoulder and abrasions. He is reported by hospital officials to be in satisfactory condition. Whiteside suffered a lacerated finger and contusions of the right thigh. He was charged by Fayette County Sheriff's Deputies with excessive speed due to conditions.

Opinion And Comment

Experience is not all

Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin has come down hard on Carla Anderson Hills' lack of experience that would fit her for the post of secretary of housing and urban development. The point he makes is, generally speaking, a sound one: Cabinet officers should have expertise in the fields they supervise. But experience is not all; other qualifications may be equally important.

As it happens, Proxmire's complaints about Mrs. Hills are not entirely accurate. As director of the Justice Department's civil division she has had more than a little contact with the housing program. The division handles some 2,500 cases annually involving the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and fraud in government housing programs falls within Mrs. Hills' jurisdiction. Though this does not qualify her as a housing expert, Proxmire exaggerates in declaring that Mr. Ford's appointee "has absolutely no known qualifications, experience or background to become secretary of HUD."

As noted above, experience is in any case not the only factor to be considered. We have recently had a demonstration of this. Peter J. Brennan, who has just resigned as secretary of labor, was long on experience. Before his appointment he had worked himself up to become head of the Building and Construction Trades Council, and was well versed in the give and take of labor-management negotiation. Brennan, however, proved to be an ineffective Cabinet member. During his term in office the Department of Labor failed to make its voice heard as it should be in the formulation of economic policy.

Mrs. Hills has exceptional qualifications for a Cabinet post. At 41 she has had a distinguished career in the law and has served ably in a Justice Department administrative post. There is reason to believe that, in spite of a shortage of detailed experience in the field of housing, she may be able to get HUD off the dead center it has occupied in recent times.

A WORD EDGEWISE.... By John P. Roche

An answer to jet lag

The other day I was talking to a friend who had just returned from the Far East. I inquired how the trip was, and he said, "Great, except for the jet lag. When I got to Tokyo, it took me two days to figure out where I was, and I felt like a moon-man for almost a week when I returned to New York." A day later another friend arrived from Saigon and registered the same complaint: "When I got back I wished I was still in the Army so I could pull out my dog tags every so often to find out who I was." This is a common phenomenon. Indeed, one of the funniest experiences of our married life occurred in Washington the night after I had returned, without layovers, from Southeast Asia. There was a closet next to my bed and, about two in the morning, according to my extremely reliable wife, I was hanging around among the clothes.

"What in the world are you doing?" she asked. "What do you mean, what am I doing?" said I. "Don't you know this is the exit to Bangkok?" This broke her up — I suspect she lunched off it for weeks — but the intellectual disequilibrium is no laughing matter. I understand that major corporations never allow executives to get down to business for at least two days after a long flight.

To revert to my conversation with the friend back from Tokyo, he went on to ask, "How in the world can someone like Dean Rusk or Henry Kissinger climb off a plane and go right into negotiations? They might give away the crown jewels without even knowing it." This surprised me, because I assumed it was general knowledge — Air Force 2, the Secretary of State's usual plane, is equipped with two beds and a number of Pullman-style berths that come down from the sides in the back of the aircraft.

This really makes a qualitative difference. At one time or another in my White House years I slept from Korea to Alaska, from Jakarta to Guam, from Hawaii to Washington, and on several other long journeys, as snug as the proverbial bug in a rug. The only difference between these bunks and the usual Pullmans is that, of course, on retiring, you strap in. Sleep seems to have a benign influence on one's inner clock (real sleep, that is; not dozing in a chair, however comfortable, with somebody always clambering over you, or lurching down the aisle). At least in my experience, it virtually eliminates jet lag.

Now I have never displayed any entrepreneurial talent, and besides I doubt if the idea could be patented, but I would like to suggest to the hard-headed capitalists who run our overseas airlines that maybe there is some money to be made by pioneering in bunks. (As I recall there used to be a Boeing on the transatlantic run, back when it was four props and 16 hours, that came equipped with bunks, but I could never afford one. However, since someone has just reinvented the trolley car, perhaps I can reinvent air-beds.) What makes this suggestion even more sensible is that I have not taken a long flight in two years that was more than half-full. With all that spare space around, why not give it a try?

To be even more specific, the last time I took a 747 to Europe and splurged on first class (before, I hasten to add, they put the fare on a rocket and sent it up). After dinner I wanted to smoke a cigar, which is frowned upon, but the stewardess suggested I go to the upstairs lounge, that funny-looking bump on the roof from which one almost expects to see 50-calibre machine guns protruding. Up I went to smoke in solitary bliss for an hour or so, interrupted only by my friendly, local, onboard service manager inquiring whether I would like a drink.

I have never been able to read on planes — subconsciously I don't really believe they can stay in the air, which makes it difficult to lose oneself in the printed word — so I amused myself by figuring out how many bunks that cabin would hold. Geometry was never my strong suit, but I calculated that probably a dozen double-deckers could be squeezed in. That figure may be high, but the space is otherwise a complete waste.

Aha! But what about the price? Well here let us return to square one. If a high-priced executive is grounded for two days after arrival in, say, Tokyo, that time is money — a lot of money. If, on the other hand, he could march out of the plane clear-eyed and rested, it might be possible to go right to work. In any event, somebody could certainly cost-out the potentialities. And if any airline wants to find out how to install bunks over the tourist seats, I'm sure the Military Airlift Command will be glad to provide technical assistance. Any takers?

Ohio Perspective

Workmen's comp. chief inundated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Kenneth E. Krouse finds himself jammed between file cases and computers, and he can't move in either direction all the way.

The new administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation wants to automate but his giant insurance operation doesn't permit a completely electronic program.

"There will remain a lot of legitimate hand operation," the 49-year-old administrator said.

The bureau is one of the state's largest insurance operations. It paid about 400,000 claims and $225 million last year.

"This is a huge casualty insurance company," said Krouse, who introduces himself as a small town lawyer despite his record as former secretary to Gov. C. William O'Neill, as assistant attorney general, administrative jobs in universities, along with investment counseling and real estate development.

About half of the state's 4.6 million workers covered by workmen's insurance fall into accounts administered by the bureau.

The remainder are covered under self-insurance programs administered by 431 large corporations, Krouse said. The bureau gets the money to pay claims by levying rates against approximately 250,000 employers.

The rates, which fall in 238 categories, are assigned according to claim experiences with individual employers.

Krouse sees his new job as administrator as one in which he strives for "good systems management" in overseeing the work of the bureau's 900 employees in 16 regional offices.

"The administrator of the fund is in charge of seeing that payments, such as death and injury benefits, are made fairly and equitably," he said.

The record-keeping job is huge. "There are people and papers and files, files, files, files," he said.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

He can only bury first wife once

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who was a pallbearer at his first wife's funeral on his second wife's 14th wedding anniversary?

That's what my husband did. He had only two children by his first wife, and seven by me.

I was plenty ticked off about this. Don't you think he could have shown his respect by just sending flowers?

I'd like your opinion.

ANNIVERSARY RUINED
DEAR RUINED: It was unfortunate that your wedding anniversary and your husband's first wife's funeral fell on the same day, but I think it's to your husband's credit that he was asked to be a pallbearer, and that he accepted. You'll have other anniversaries, hopefully, but his first wife can be buried only once.

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote asking whether one should wear panties UNDER pantyhose or OVER them, and you replied that pantyhose served as both panties and hosiery, so with nightly laundering panties were not necessary at all.

Abby, please rush this into print: A few years ago, my elderly mother was introduced to pantyhose, and she loved them. Within a few months, she developed a dreadful vaginal infection which spread into her bladder, and she was hospitalized in agony.

There seemed to be no medication that could combat the particular bacillus that invaded her system. The several doctors who attended her (and did eventually cure her) all told me that they'd been seeing much too much of similar infections, although mostly among younger women.

They concluded that there must be something in the dye of the pantyhose that caused the infection, so they now urge women to wear panties under their pantyhose. Please, won't you please help to spread the word? I realize that not all women react the same way, but if this prevents only a few from experiencing the kind of nightmare my mother endured, it will be worth a place in your widely read column.

WISCONSINITE
DEAR WIS: I consulted several topnotch gynecologists and dermatologists and they all agreed with you! Wo the word from here is-play it safe, girls, and wear white cotton panties under your pantyhose, unless your pantyhose have cotton crotches.

DEAR ABBY: I smoke because I enjoy it. And I resent the way people are now trying to make smokers feel like second class citizens. I see "NO SMOKING" signs in places where they never were before. (In doctors' waiting rooms for instance. Smoking calms my nerves, so isn't it natural to want a cigarette in a doctor's office? Also in elevators and in some stores?)

Smoking is a nervous habit, right? Well, I put up with the nervous habits of others. Some people crack their knuckles, some clear their throats, some have nervous coughs, or they sniff. People with nervous tics also make me nervous, but I don't mention it.

So, since smoking is also a nervous habit, why can't people be as tolerant of MY nervous habit as I am of THEIRS?

PIPE SMOKER
DEAR SMOKER: Because YOUR nervous habit pollutes THEIR air, that's why. Put that in your pipe and smoke it!

Today In History

Today is Monday, Feb. 24, the 55th day of 1975. There are 310 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1920, the Nazi Party was organized in Germany.

On this date —
In 1761, James Otis of Massachusetts protested against the English system of search and seizure, declaring: "A man's house is his castle."

In 1863, Arizona was organized as a territory.

In 1868, impeachment proceedings against President Andrew Johnson were begun in Congress.

In 1903, the United States acquired a naval station on Cuba's Guantanamo Bay.

In 1922, a notorious Frenchman known as Bluebeard, Henri Landru, was executed at Versailles, France for murdering 10 lady friends.

In 1945, American troops liberated the Philippine capital of Manila from Japanese occupation during World War II.

Ten years ago: About 5,000 demonstrating students led by four professors clashed with hundreds of policemen in University City at Madrid.

Five years ago: Thirty persons were killed in an avalanche at Reckingen in southwestern Switzerland.

One year ago: Islamic leaders concluded a 30-nation summit meeting in Pakistan with a pledge to help developing countries hurt by rising oil prices.

Today's birthday: Jamaican political leader Sir Alexander Bustamante is 91.

Thought for today: Law is a form of order, and good law therefore means good order — Aristotle, Greek philosopher, 384-322 B-C.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 25

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Planetary influences somewhat mixed, but generally on the favorable side. You may get unexpected help in a personal problem through a business associate.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Some surprising changes — for the most part beneficial, depending on how well managed. A good chance for completing a profitable financial transaction.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Day may be somewhat irritating in spots — either through business associates who prove difficult or some misunderstanding with your mate. But hang in there: Late p.m. hours find problems happily solved.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Financial matters have an element of risk, so make your moves slowly and deliberately. Personal relationships, however, promise to be exceptionally congenial.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Clear thinking and direct action will be necessary if you would prevent interference with your plans. Don't let anyone or anything keep you from pursuing worthwhile objectives.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Some situations highly mystifying. Don't fret: you'll only worsen matters. Rather, see if you can get some background information to help clarify matters.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

You may have a hankering to do something in a way not supported by logic. Better think about the consequences — to yourself and others. Be alert, perceptive.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

If you have any doubt about projects, reconsider them, but subdue unreasonable fears. Give a thought to earlier successful moves. They could guide you now.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Don't lose patience with slower, even aggravating persons: It will only upset you, may result in fruitless disputes. Also, avoid pessimists and troublemakers.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

"Retreat" is a word not usually found in your vocabulary, but it could be used strategically now to reinforce strength, improve tactics.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Under splendid auspices are health, recreational and intellectual pursuits. Also favored: artistic interests. You should have smooth going.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Don't be thrown off guard by fancy-sounding, but possibly misleading propositions. Study the overall picture. Where there is REAL value, don't hesitate.

YOU BORN TODAY, like most Pisceans, have a strong affinity for the artistic but you also have a very practical streak which, coupled with your remarkable intuition, gives you the ability to put your creative abilities to the best use. Music and literature are the best outlets for your talents but, even if you do not adopt one of these as a life work, you may develop into a connoisseur in either field. Paradoxically, with such artistic leanings, you are also a whiz with figures, and could become an outstanding financier. But here you MUST be realistic. The Piscean is often superstitious and may act on hunches or "omens" — which could prove disastrous. Other fields, in which you could excel: shipbuilding and shipowning, statesmanship, the theater, painting and sculpture.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

The Public Works Committee was one of my original legislative committee assignments when I first came to Congress in 1961. Committee reform legislation enacted last October broadened the committee's jurisdiction and retitled it "Public Works and Transportation."

I am delighted to undertake the challenge of this broadened responsibility. For the first time, the bulk of transportation jurisdiction and the problems incumbent to a national transportation system are under one committee. The Public Works and Transportation Committee now encompasses all forms of transportation except railroad systems. This is a very health thing. With this expanded jurisdiction, we can develop a well balanced and integrated national transportation system.

During the current Congress, the committee will be made up of 27 Democrats (the majority party) and 13 Republicans, including myself.

Legislative jurisdiction is allocated among six subcommittees, whose membership reflects the same two-to-one ratio of the full committee and the Congress as a whole. As the ranking minority member, I sit as an ad hoc member on all of these subcommittees.

Legislation originating in these subcommittees affect the economic development of the Sixth District as well as the entire State of Ohio. In the past I have introduced and helped obtain passage of the Appalachian Regional Development Act, the Economic Development Act, the Federal-Aid Highway Act, and the Water Pollution Control Act, all of which have been of great benefit to our area in developing permanent jobs, promoting sound economic growth, and preserving and protecting our environment.

The newly-formed Aviation subcommittee has initial jurisdiction over many aspects of general and commercial aviation including airport development, rate schedules, and airline safety.

Our air carriers moved about 210 million people in 1974. This is likely to more than double by 1980. Air cargo movements are climbing rapidly and there is no indication that military training flights, which also make heavy demands on our Air Traffic Control system, will in any way lessen.

During the first four years under the Airport and Airways Development Act of 1970, the National Airport System received allocations totaling more than $1.1 billion in development aid. As a result, much has been done to improve the efficiency and safety of airports. However, in light of recent airline catastrophes, much more needs to be done.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, which now falls under Public Works and Transportation jurisdiction, gains special significance within the committee due to problems caused by the energy crisis and environmental developments. Problems caused by the energy shortage range from fuel conservation to fuel cost compensation for owner operators. Reduced supplies, uneven distribution, and increasing costs of energy contribute to the urgent need for developing practical energy strategies. With only 6 per cent of the Earth's population, the U.S. consumes one-third of the world's energy. Although the Nation has vast coal reserves, underdeveloped oil shale deposits, and access to a highly sophisticated technology, the national economy and security will continue for some time to depend upon foreign sources of energy, particularly petroleum.

Interstate Commerce Commission programs will have to be designed to assist carriers and their operators in receiving compensation for spiraling rises in cost of fuel.

Water resources is one of my major subcommittee responsibilities. Measures considered here concern such areas as navigable waterways; water quality programs including grant authority for construction of sewage treatment plants; and Corps of Engineers multi-purpose watershed projects for flood control, recreation, hydroelectric power, and navigation. In this area, I recently introduced a motion before the full committee to authorize a survey by the Army Corps of Engineers of the economic and engineering feasibility of improvement and development of port facilities along the Ohio River. The port improvements could play a key role in the advancement of programs for converting Ohio coal into gasoline, heating oil and other vital products and for delivery to distant markets.

The resources and manpower of the Public Works and Transportation Committee are committed to the effective and economical administration of these new areas of jurisdiction. My full effort will be to use this new authority to help solve the many problems, both Nationally and those affecting the Sixth District of Ohio.

Investigate death of company worker

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — Officials of the Stauffer Chemical Co. near here say they are investigating the death Sunday of employee Richard Nelson Sanders, 26, of Bidwell, Ohio.

A company spokesman said Sanders suffered chemical burns on his lower body in an accident, but the exact cause of death has not been determined.

Flooding plagues Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Extensive flooding brought on by heavy rains continued today in the wake of five drowning deaths and evacuation of homes near the rampaging White River in central Indiana.

Police said three Indianapolis teenagers drowned near Bloomington in Slammer Cave and two Columbus, Ind., children were presumed drowned in Little Sand Creek in Bartholomew County.

All deaths were attributed to a heavy downpour that doused a wide area of central Indiana extending from Edwardsport in Knox County to Muncie in Delaware County late Saturday and early Sunday.

As of Sunday morning, Edwardsport had received 3 inches of rain and cities along the northeastward line of heavy showers recorded a minimum of 2 inches.

The National Weather Service said most of the rainfall had subsided by 5 p.m. Sunday night, but the frontal system that brought the precipitation had become stationary over Indiana.

The three cave explorers, whose bodies were recovered Sunday, were identified as Terry Lee Yokem, 18; Kim Alan Aldrich, 19, and Marcia Ann Bott, 18.

Authorities also said David Parkerson, 3, and Brian Parkerson, 8 months, were still missing after an auto driven by their 18-year-old mother, Mrs. Betty Parkerson, was swept into Little Sand Creek.

State police divers were still searching for the car late Sunday night, but it was believed floodwaters had carried it more than a mile downstream.

McNair Presbyterian Church is setting for wedding

A large arrangement of white mums and pink carnations, with candelabra and palms graced the altar of McNair Presbyterian Church Friday evening for the marriage of Miss Michelle Hamulak and Thomas Alan McMurray. Each pew had candles with pink satin bows.

Rev. Wilbur Bullock officiated at the double-ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Friday for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hamulak of 1028 Center St., and the son of Mrs. Myrtle McMurray, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville, and the late John A. McMurray.

The bride wore a floor length powder blue gown with empire waist and blue lace bodice. Her veil was shoulder-length and she carried a colonial bouquet of white pompons, stephanotis and roses, with eggshell streamers, with a corsage of red sweetheart roses in the center.

Mrs. Dan (Mileah) Jones, sister of the bride, and matron of honor, wore a blue and white formal length dress with empire waist, with arrangement of white carnations, pompons, and sweetheart roses, with pink streamers. John McMurray, brother of the groom, served as best man. Seating the wedding guests were Dan Jones and Kenneth Hammond.

The bride's mother wore a two-piece peach formal length dress with matching floral jacket and black accessories. Mrs. McMurray, the groom's mother, wore a pink formal length dress with chiffon sleeves and matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of Georgian orchids.

Hostesses for the reception which followed at the Jefferson Inn in Jeffersonville were Mrs. Beverly McMurray, Mrs. JoAnn Hammond and Sue Gentry.

The couple will reside at Rt. 1, Jeffersonville, following a trip through the western part of the United States.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McMurray are graduates of Washington Senior High School. She is presently employed at the J&J Restaurant, and her husband is self-employed.

PIC-A-FAY 4-H Club

The second meeting of the Pic-a-Fay 4-H Club was opened by the 1974 president Jomi Warner. Pledges were led by Kathy Kirk.

The meeting was highlighted by the election of officers. They are president, Cindy Baird; vice president, Jomi Warner; secretary, Jane Kearney; treasurer, Twila Dennis; news reporter, Gale Horney; senior safety leader, Kathy Kirk; senior health leader, Karen Miller; junior safety leader, Linda Miller; junior health leader, Angela Johnson; recreation, Diana Hughes and Cindy Thompson.

Cindy Thompson gave a report on comparing homemade brownie cost with mix cost. Junior leaders assisted the younger members with sewing technics. "Breads" was decided on as a club project. Individual projects were also decided upon. The meeting was adjourned by Kathy Kirk.

Refreshments were served by Cindy Thompson. At the next meeting, Brenda Reinhart will be making cracked-wheat bread. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Rodney Miller. Refreshments will be served by Kathy Kirk and Angela Johnson. Advisers for the club are Mrs. Rodney Miller and Mrs. Harold Thompson.

Gale Horney, reporter

TRIPLE-R-RUSTLERS 4-H

At the third meeting for the year of the Triple-R-Rustlers 4-H Club, members learned about each others' projects as Advisor Mrs. Gerry Greene read the stories brought in of the members' horses.

In addition, two major items of business were acted upon. As a community project, the members voted to campaign for the Heart Fund. Then, halter practice was set up for April 29, weather permitting.

Worms, laminitis, grooming, and the American Quarter Horse were the subjects covered in reports respectively given by Mike Ferguson, Carleta Smith, Ross Emrick, and Michele Sigman.

The next meeting will be held March 4 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Gerry Greene.

'Open house' is planned for golden anniversaries

MR. & MRS. HAROLD DORN

Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Dorn of Sedalia will be honored at "Open House" from 2 until 4 p.m. Sunday, March 2, in the Midway Presbyterian Church in Sedalia. Mr. and Mrs. Dorn will be observing their golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorn (the former Dorothy Ervin), are foster grandparents at Orient State Institute. They were married Feb. 25, 1925, by the Rev. Weaver in the parsonage in Jeffersonville.

Hosts for the open house will be their children, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Dorn of Washington C. H. and Mr. and Mrs. Burt (Claudine) Williams of Columbus. They also have three grandchildren, Jill Dorn and Eric and Tim Williams. They request no gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Boltenhouse, Rt. 1, Frankfort, will be guests of honor at "open house" from 2 to 4 p.m. March 2 in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Wolford, Rt. 1, Frankfort. The occasion will be their golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. Boltenhouse, a retired carpenter, and the former Miss Mildred Parker were married March 3, 1925, in the Methodist parsonage in Circleville by the Rev. Charles Wilmore.

Hosts for the open house will be their son, John B., Camp Grove Rd., and their other daughter, Mrs. Leroy (Carolyn) Farris of Washington C. H. They have five grandchildren.

Hospital chief explains expansion plans

The Conner Farm Woman's Club met Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Robert Pero, 3475 Snowhill Road. The meeting was opened by President Mrs. R. Carleton Belt, who read from a quotation "Not years, nor disillusion, can annul the fact - today is good - this hour is full". Mrs. Pero gave devotions and read "The Basque Sheep Herder" and the Club Creed was repeated in unison. Each member present answered roll call by stating her "favorite pastime". Mrs. Maurice L. Sollars read the minutes of the previous meeting and gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Belt announced that the March meeting would be held at the home of Mrs. Otties Smith, instead of Mrs. Edgar Wilson. Mrs. Wilson will entertain the Club in April, and Mrs. Kenneth Bush stated flowers were sent to Mrs. Job Burris in Fayette Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Belt appointed Mrs. Pero and Mrs. Barton Montgomery on the Fayette County Bicentennial Committee.

Mrs. Heber Deer announced the Columbus South District United Methodist Church would have a "Let yourself grow Day", March 4th, at Grace United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Emerson Marting introduced the speaker of the afternoon R.L. Kunz, and he showed slides and spoke on the Fayette Memorial Hospital expansion plans. A question and answer period followed.

Mrs. Pero served a dessert course to Mrs. Belt, Mrs. Bush, Mrs. Robert I. Case, Mrs. Robert D. Coffman, Mrs. Deer, Mrs. Russell Lanman, Mrs. Marting, Mrs. Lorain Morter, Mrs. Jean S. Nisley, Mrs. Joe Palmer, Mrs. William D. Shepard, Mrs. Smith, Mrs.

Thorough cooking is essential for fresh and uncooked smoked sausages. Cook gently, turning with tongs so the surface won't be broken and all the flavorful juices lost.

Streiking is good exercise, according to Lois L. Lindauer, national director of the Diet Workshop. A 15-minute streak burns up 200 calories, equal to a chocolate bar or an ice cream cone.

BPW legislative day planned March 8 in Columbus

Karen Keesling, director of women's programs for the White House, and young careerist chairman for the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, will be the keynote speaker for a special legislative day March 8 in Columbus.

Mary Patterson, legislation chairman for the Ohio Business Federation of Business and Professional Women, announced the theme of the day will be "A Woman's Place In The World. . . Yesterday. Today. Tomorrow." Following a luncheon at 12:30 p.m. at the Christopher Inn, BPW members and guests will honor members of the state legislature, and women serving in local and state government positions will be introduced.

As BPW young careerist chairman, Miss Keesling is responsible for youth programming for the 170,000 member working women's organization, and also serves on BWP's national planning committee. Formerly executive secretary of the advisory committee on rights and responsibilities of women at the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the guest speaker has made the women's movement her career. Holder of a bachelor's and master's degrees in mathematics from Arizona State University, the Kansas native is an avid sportswoman and won the title of Kansas Women's Golf Champion in 1966.

A member of BPW in Falls Church, Va., and a frequent speaker on elevating the status of women in the United States, Miss Keesling is a former assistant dean of women at the University of Kansas, and holds memberships in the Women's Equity Action League, and American Association of University Women.

Mrs. Pauline Riel of Morrow County heads the Ohio BPW federation, which numbers nearly 9,000 members in more than 180 clubs across the state.

Engaged

The engagement of Miss Wilma Jane Poplin and Wesley Neal Pierce has been announced. Miss Poplin is the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Poplin of Mount Sterling, and the late John Poplin. The prospective groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Labon Pierce of Rt. 1, Jeffersonville.

Mr. Pierce, a 1971 graduate of Miami Trace High School, is employed by the Ohio Willowood at Mount Sterling.

The wedding will be an event of Aug. 24 in the Church of Christ and Christian Union in Bookwalter.

Ehrlichman set for Indiana work

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman, President Nixon's former domestic affairs adviser who was convicted in the Watergate cover-up, will soon go to Espanola, N.M., to work for American Indian rights, says Ehrlichman's lawyer, Ira M. Lowe. Ehrlichman has been sentenced to 2½ to 8 years in prison and, like three others sentenced in the case, plans to appeal. Before sentence was passed Friday, Lowe said Ehrlichman wanted to work for the Indians instead of going to jail.

On Sunday, Lowe said Ehrlichman is preparing to go to New Mexico within a few days and called the action "an example so that judges will see that there is an alternative to incarceration."

Lowe said Ehrlichman will get subsistence from the Indians but no fee.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "When people are in trouble they call the police," says the ABC ad. "When the police are in trouble they call S.W.A.T."

I fear a prankster gave ABC the number of D.R.A.T. (Downright Awful Television) when the network called on "S.W.A.T." (Special Weapons and Tactics Team) as a midseason replacement series.

Tonight's debut show concerns an elite, paramilitary police unit which comes on like a bunch of Green Berets in blue.

They're skilled in such combat arts as house-to-house fighting, helicopter rappelling, M-16ing and grimacing. They travel in a "war wagon" and wear flak jackets, jumpsuits and paratrooper boots.

And they use such military jargon as "neutralize" and "second line of defense." I only wish they'd employed "protective reaction" when asked to recite the amateurish lines of tonight's show.

"S.W.A.T." is frighteningly realistic as it starts with the cross-fire ambush of two cops answering a family disturbance call. But the wretched dialogue of the show is promptly established as a regular policeman tells the S.W.A.T. team chief a sniper is on the roof of a nearby building, and asks, "How do we take it?"

"You don't. We do," grunts the team chief, Lt. Hondo Harrelson, played with stiff-jawed grimace by Steve Forrest.

The ambushers, who've killed one cop and wounded another, escape in a blaze of gunfire. Ensuing S.W.A.T. talk reveals the gunmen are loons on a cop-killing spree. Why? asks a black S.W.A.T. sergeant.

"Color," Hondo says. "Not because they're black, brown or white. Because they're blue."

Subsequent scenes have the wounded, revenge-seeking cop and others in his precinct applying for membership in a new S.W.A.T. team forming there. He and two others are chosen after basic training.

Meanwhile, we learn the killers are two brothers, their cousin and his wife. The menfolk seek revenge because the brothers' father was killed by police. The lady sets up ambushes by phoning police for help.

Sure, Hondo's men set a trap and nab the baddies, but not before one villain, smelling a trap, emits this classic line: "I don't like the vibes ... something's going down. I can feel it."

He could well be talking about the ratings future of this series.

Tonight's show no doubt will get good ratings because of publicity given real-life SWAT teams, particularly the teams involved in last year's shootout in Watts with members of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

But should the bad dialogue persist, I've little doubt ABC's "S.W.A.T." will be swatted off the tube by the end of spring.

It's a pity the producers didn't watch NBC's brilliant "Police Story" segment about a SWAT team a few weeks ago. They might have learned a few things — like attention to detail, believable acting and intelligent script-writing.

2 Nevada clubs bought

CRYSTAL BAY, Nev. (AP) — The Crystal Bay Club and Cal-Neva Lodge have been purchased by the BKJ Corp. for more than $9 million, an official with one of the clubs said Sunday.

Ray Plunkett, general manager and vice president of the Crystal Bay Club, said the sale which had been in progress for some time took place Friday.

Plunkett said the BKJ Corp. is composed of Everett Brunzell, of Brunzell Construction Co. based in Reno, plus Charles Ketcham and Norman Jensen, both of Las Vegas.

The clubs on the north shore of Lake Tahoe were purchased from the Ohio Real Estate Investment Co. and the Ohio Real Estate Equities Co., Plunkett said.

Plunkett said BKJ, which had been "in the stages of purchasing the clubs for some time," had been awaiting approval from the Ohio companies and the courts before the sale could be consummated.

People in tears at Nixon party

PALMSPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — "I'm telling you, he had people in tears," entertainer Bob Hope said after former President Richard M. Nixon talked at a weekend party about how important his friends are to him now.

The gathering, at the estate of Walter H. Annenberg, former U.S. ambassador to Great Britain, was Nixon's first social appearance away from his seaside villa at San Clemente since undergoing phlebitis surgery last October.

"He didn't talk about the past but said how important friends were to him," Hope related Sunday.

"He said friends are very important when you're at the top but even more so at a time like this."

"I'm telling you, he had people in tears."

Hope and Nixon are longtime friends. Others at the Saturday night dinner included Frank Sinatra, former Gov. and Mrs. Ronald Reagan and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Firestone.

Hope said it was the first time he had met with Nixon since a meeting nearly two years ago at Camp David. "Although I talked to him three times on the phone: one time he called me after I had sent him my book 'The Last Christmas Show.'"

"I asked him to play golf with me and he said he would be ready in a couple of months."

Hope said that after a dinner that included caviar, chateaubriand and Dom Perignon champagne, Annenberg toasted Nixon, saying "how nice the President had been to him and how much he enjoyed serving under Nixon. It was a very nice, very plain flattering tribute."

Hope said Nixon talked for about 10 minutes.

"I'm sure that the President enjoyed the evening," the entertainer said. "He needs a lot of rest and he needs a lot of friends."

Nixon, who resigned under pressure last August in the wake of Watergate, is reportedly still recovering from the phlebitis surgery.

He and his wife, Pat, were expected to be back at their San Clemente home today after spending five days at Annenberg's estate.

Bird deaths are humane, expert says

CHATTANOOGA (AP)—A helicopter pilot who flew a birdkilling mission three years ago says methods being used by the Army to reduce the bird population at Ft. Campbell, Ky. are the most humane possible.

"You have to see that many birds to believe what damage they can do," John Gray, a Chattanooga resident who flew a 1972 bird spraying mission at the Marion Correctional Institution at Marion, Ohio said Saturday.

"When they flocked in to roost in early evening, they completely blocked the sun," he said. "And the waste they left was three feet high."

Gray said the chemical being sprayed on millions of blackbirds, starlings, cowbirds and grackles at Ft. Campbell—Tergitol—is as mild as dishwashing detergent.

"It's nothing but soap and it doesn't affect the ground surface," he said.

But it does strip birds of protective oils, causing them to freeze to death.

"There is no pain, no agony," Gray said. "The birds become numb and die. It is much better than poisoning or shooting or other solutions that could be used."

Gray said he doubts the argument that other birds will be killed.

"Simply because of the number of these birds, other species such as robins and cardinals would vacate the area," he said.

"If something isn't done, the birds will take out the forage completely because there are too many for the amount of food on the land."

"When they come in by the millions, they soon take out all the insects and then start looking for crops such as corn. It is unbelievable what they do to an area."

No wonder our 5 o'clock 10-minute prices have so many people talking.

As you can see, there's a big difference in the cost of 10-minute self-dialed calls after 5 pm. That's when our everyday low prices go into effect.

Why, just take a look at some of the cities above. Like Los Angeles. Before 5 pm, a 10-minute call to L.A. costs $4.67. After 5 pm, the same call costs $2.60, (85¢ for the first three minutes, 25¢ for each additional one, plus tax.) And the closer to home you call, the less it costs.

And wherever you call, it will cost even less after 11 pm. And on weekends right up to 5 pm Sunday.

But just remember, whenever and whoever you call, be sure to dial the call yourself, without operator assistance. Otherwise, you won't save much money.

Then after you've dialed the call yourself, make yourself comfortable, relax, talk 10 minutes and enjoy the difference 5 o'clock makes.

Ohio Bell

Use your phone for all it's worth.

Dial-it-yourself rates apply on self-dialed calls (without operator assistance) from residence and business phones anywhere in the U.S. (except Alaska) and on calls placed with an operator where direct dialing facilities are not available. Dial-it-yourself rates do not apply to person-to-person, coin, hotel guest, credit card, collect calls and on calls charged to another number. All rates plus tax.

Trace drops heartbreaker

The Miami Trace Panthers could not hold on to a last minute three point lead dropping a tough 64-61 decision to the Logan Chieftains in the opening round of sectional tournament play at Rio Grande College Saturday night.

The Panthers finished the season in respectable style despite the loss. Miami Trace started three Juniors, a sophomore and a freshman, none over six-feet tall, against a big, experienced Logan five. The Panthers utilized quickness and a lot of hustle in forcing the favored Chieftains to come from behind in the 'do or die' contest.

Miami Trace came out running and played some fine fundamental basketball to take an early 16-14 lead. Logan stayed close in the first quarter. Then the Chieftains, utilizing a big height advantage in controlling the boards and some fine shooting by forward Mitch Wright, steamed ahead at the half, 35-32.

Enthusiasm must have been running high in the Panther locker room at half time, because Trace came out flying after intermission with some fine ball-hawking and an effective fast break.

Coach Dale Creamer went with a 6-foot-3 forward, John Schlichter, to start the second half and to help out on the boards. Trace's Art Schlichter and Alan Conner were able to beat the Logan defense back to the basket for some easy layups and Greg Cobb hustled on the boards to help outscore Logan 20-10 in the third quarter.

At the five minute mark in the final period, Miami Trace, holding a 57-52 lead, began slowing the game down pulling Logan out of its 1-3-1 zone into a pressing man-to-man defense. The result was two and a half minutes of scoreless ball before the Logan experience and press began to take its toll in Panther turnovers.

Logan's 6-foot-4 senior center, Don Young, hit on two consecutive field goals. The first, a short hook with one minute left, pulled Logan within three points, 59-56. Trace again tried the stall with Logan fouling Dan Gifford with 49 seconds remaining. Gifford could not connect from the line and Young hit another from short distance to pull Logan within one point.

FAST BREAK — Miami Trace's Art Schlichter beats four Logan players to the basket in the fourth quarter of Saturday's sectional contest at Rio Grande College. Schlichter led the Panthers with 16 points most of those coming on the fast break as Trace tried to out run the taller Logan team.

Then guard Gary English weaved his way to the basket to put the Panthers back up by three with 15 seconds left. Logan hurried the ball down court to Jeff Wright, who put in the last of his game leading 24 points to close the gap to one point again.

The Chieftains could not afford to waste any time and fouled Alan Conner bringing the ball up with just nine seconds to play. Conner went to line with a chance to put the Panthers up by three and ice the game. He missed the first shot in the bonus situation and the Chieftain's Young got the rebound.

After a Logan time out, Scott Cosnell scored his only two points of the game, a desperation jumpshot, with three seconds left on the clock to put Logan ahead for the first time since the half, 62-61.

The Panthers took a quick time out. Coach Creamer called for a long in bounds pass near the Trace goal to utilize the remaining three seconds.

The pass was too high hitting the girders at the top of The Lyne Center gym. The bad pass finished Miami Trace for the game and the season as Logan secured the victory on two free throws after the turnover.

The defeat could be the dawning of a bright future for Miami Trace basketball. Coach Creamer played only underclassmen in the narrow defeat to a fine Logan team. Freshman Art Schlichter led the Panthers in scoring with 16 points. He was followed by Alan Conner and Greg Cobb with 14 each.

Logan had four players in double figures. Wright had 24 and Young hit for 12 while pulling down 14 rebounds. The Chieftains will go on to play Portsmouth in the second round of the sectional Saturday.

Fitzsimons wins L. A. golf clash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I thought if I shot 65 I would win," said Jack Nicklaus. "I didn't know how this young boy would react."

Nicklaus shot his 65, but he didn't win.

That's because the reaction of the young boy, Pat FitzSimons, was a clinching string of 14 consecutive pars — a hard-won string put together in the face of growing pressure — that secured his first professional triumph in Sunday's final round of the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament.

FitzSimons was staked to a six-shot lead by his course-record 64 in Saturday's third round and clinched it with a gritty, steady, one-under-par 70 over the last 18 holes of the demanding, 7,028-yard Riviera Country Club course.

He won by a comfortable four strokes with a 275 total. The big lead starting the final round was the difference.

"With a six-stroke lead, you want to concede yourself the victory, but you can't do that," the curly-haired, 24-year-old FitzSimons said.

"It's like looking at a three-foot putt for six hours. If you make it, people say, 'Well, that's what he's supposed to do.' If you miss it, they say, 'How in the world could he blow something like that?'"

"Blowing a six-shot lead could be a devastating thing."

His closing string of 14 pars precluded that possibility. FitzSimons, who'd never even come close to winning before, left the strongest field of the year strung out well behind him. No one ever got closer than four strokes.

That was Tom Kite, who birdied three of four holes on the back nine for a 68 and finished second at 279.

Nicklaus, who started play 10 strokes back in the mild, sunny weather of the final round, made up the lost ground but finished five behind at 280.

"Delighted," Nicklaus said. "That's the first really good round I've played in a long time. I thought a 65 would win. It all depended on the young man leading."

Tom Weiskopf and U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin were next at 282, Irwin with a closing 67, Weiskopf with a 68. Tom Watson, Billy Casper, Jim Dent and Jerry McGee were at 283. Casper shot a last round 69, McGee and Dent 70, Watson 71.

Losses stun UCLA, Wolfpack

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Coaches John Wooden and Norm Sloan got a taste of what it feels like from the other side this weekend, and neither was particularly pleased by the sting of 22-point losses.

Wooden's second-ranked UCLA Bruins suffered their worst defeat in 10 years Saturday night, bowing to Pacific-8 foe Washington 103-81 at Seattle. Earlier Saturday, surprising Clemson whipped Sloan's defending national champion, fourth-ranked North Carolina State, 92-70.

Outside the Bruins' locker room, Wooden said: "I'm very disappointed. We weren't outlucked, it was just a good beating. I was not surprised that we were beaten; I was surprised how badly we were beaten."

The difference for N.C. State, as usual, was David Thompson — only this time it was on the negative side. The Wolfpack's All-American forward fouled out 15:56 left in the game after scoring just 15 points, half his average.

The 16th-ranked Tigers jumped ahead 18-6 and N.C. State never caught up. Skip Wise poured in 30 points for Clemson, which outrebounded the Wolfpack 48-30.

"I don't have much to say," said N.C. State Coach Sloan. "We just got an old fashioned fanny kicking — a good beating."

Sparky Anderson will get tough

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — It's been five years since George (Sparky) Anderson sprang from obscurity into the hot seat as manager of the power-laden Cincinnati Reds.

"I told people to wait five years to judge me," said Anderson, whose Reds are one of baseball's winningest teams but a bridesmaid each fall.

The 41-year-old Anderson says he's learned from the frustration of being sidetracked from the elusive world championship.

He's ready to shoulder the blame for 1974's erratic ways.

"I didn't have us ready mentally when we left spring training. I built my club up as untouchable. I overdid it," he said.

"They read how good they were and believed it," said Anderson.

The Reds got off to a slow start, fell far behind the Los Angeles Dodgers, then rode a torrid late-summer spell back into contention. But Cincinnati's Big Red Machine spun its wheels in the stretch.

Anderson promised a get-tough attitude for 1975.

He's won three division titles and two National League pennants. But it's not enough.

"Make no doubt about it," he said, "I'd like to retire and be No. 1. Everyone has an ego and I have one that's as large as anyone's."

His biggest challenge lies in 1975.

Reds management decided to stand pat in the off-season, leaving third base and its defensive problems a key concern. Right field is still a question mark, too.

"I'm going to have to be more understanding and patient this year than ever before," said Anderson. "All the time I'm going to have three guys unhappy—three guys who think they should be playing and who aren't."

He was referring to his plans to shuttle George Foster, Danny Driessen and Ken Griffey in right field.

"My toughest job will be to get guys into enough games so they feel part of the team. With five years behind me, I have the strength to be able to go through this and keep the guys happy," he said.

Washington takes 2nd in tourney

Wilmington trounced the Washington Middle School eighth grade in the tournament finals at Greenfield Saturday. Washington just couldn't get things going falling behind 13-5 in the first quarter.

Washington could only manage 14 points through the first three quarters as its tournament champion hopes faded with its offensive power. Wilmington could do no better than two baskets to open the second half, but Washington was held to three points in the third quarter and the game was out of reach.

Three charges filed on youth

A 17-year-old Columbus youth was arrested and charged by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department with petty theft, possession of marijuana and driving while under license suspension Sunday.

Sheriff Donald L. Thompson explained the youth was arrested after ordering 13 gallons of gasoline for his car at the Sunoco service station, intersection of I-71 and Ohio 38, and then leaving without paying.

Sheriff's deputies Don Cox and David Souther, who were patrolling in the vicinity of I-71 and U.S. 35, were alerted and located the auto and youth in question. In checking the boy's license and searching his vehicle, the other offenses were discovered and appropriate charges levied.

The youth has been released to his parents.

Traffic accidents

Road, and struck a fence owned by Donald Cockerill, 528 Lewis St., and an Ohio Bell Telephone Co. pole. Ms. Leggett was cited for failure to drive on the right half of the roadway by sheriff's deputies.

SATURDAY, 9 p.m. — A car driven by Stony M. Howe, 18, Bloomingburg, failed to negotiate a right curve, while traveling north on Yatesville-Wissler Road, eight-tenths of a mile east of Ohio 38, and drove through a fence belonging to Ethyl Durlinger, Bloomingburg, and into her field. Howe was cited for excessive speed due to road conditions by sheriff's deputies.

6:10 p.m. — A car driven by Gerald R. Smith, 20, of 524 E. Elm St., failed to negotiate a right curve and struck a fence belonging to Ann Dorn, of Mount Sterling. The mishap occurred on Rockwell Road, six-tenths of a mile from the Harrison Road intersection. Sheriff's deputies cited Smith for excessive speed due to road conditions.

AFL-CIO urges nationalized oil

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Blaming the energy crisis on efforts by the giant oil companies to "fatten the profits," the AFL-CIO says Congress should take steps toward nationalizing the industry.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council, which ends its winter meeting here today, called for legislation that would transfer into government hands the authority for importing oil. The proposal would require the oil companies to sell their marketing operations and holdings in other energy sources, such as coal and natural gas.

Although the council stopped short of advocating outright nationalization, AFL-CIO President George Meany said, "so be it," when asked if his organization's proposals amounted to that.

"I don't think this is the worst thing that could happen," Meany said. "If the oil companies keep behaving the way they are — conducting their business in complete disregard of the interest of the American people — I think nationalization is inevitable some day."

Union leaders said they believed that the energy crisis was "a result of policy decisions made by the oil companies to squeeze the consumers, force them to pay higher prices and fatten the profits of the oil companies."

The long lines for gasoline and shortages of heating oil suffered a year ago during the Arab oil embargo "pales into insignificance compared to what looms ahead unless immediate and drastic action is taken," the executive council said.

Among measures proposed by the council was legislation that would:

—Prohibit a single company from owning competing sources of energy. A number of the major coal, natural gas and uranium producers are owned by the major oil companies, the AFL-CIO said.

—Separate the sale of petroleum products from the production and refining of crude oil by requiring the oil giants to divest themselves of their marketing operations.

—Treat the oil companies as public utilities subject to stringent federal regulation.

—Remove the importation of oil from private hands and place it under government authority.

Larceny, vandal reports checked

A larceny, an incident of vandalism and a dog bite were reported by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department today. Washington C. H. police investigated a bicycle larceny and a malicious destruction of property incident.

Sheriff's deputies reported someone carried off nine gallons of gasoline from the BiLo service station, I-71 and U.S. 35, at 12 a.m. Sunday. They are investigating.

Two mailboxes belonging to Kenneth W. Stewart were vandalized at his 6239 Palmer Rd. residence around 9:30 p.m. Saturday, sheriff's deputies reported.

Jeffrey A. Wheeler, 3, Milledgeville, was bitten on his left ear by a puppy at his residence at 5:30 p.m. Saturday, sheriff's deputies reported. He was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital, treated for the laceration and then released.

Pope Paul VI given bicycle

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI says his studio window presents "a panorama of very different events; some of them are agitated, threatening, painful; others are consoling and promising."

Among the disturbing events: crime, social unrest, inflation, recession and "new sources of international armed conflicts."

But he said there are also the consoling events — among them a meeting Saturday with cyclists in the Tour of Sardinia race. The Pope, a cyclist himself in his youth, was presented with a bicycle and a cyclist's jersey by two experts, one Belgian and one Italian.

Arrests

SHERIFF

SATURDAY — Erwin Higgins, 51, Battle Creek, Mich., driving under license suspension.

SUNDAY — Jerry Colter, 21, Clarksburg, private warrant for assault.

MONDAY — Edward V. Thomas, 31, Irondale, failure to drive in marked lane and driving while intoxicated.

PATROL

For speeding:
SUNDAY — Marcia Koehler, 22, Hamilton; Jerry V. Goodlander, 30, Cincinnati; Logan I. Weese, 58, Dayton.

SATURDAY — Vincent F. Scibana, 25, Cincinnati; Wally Feldstein, 48, Walkertown, N.C.; Wayne T. Manuel, 41, Wheeling, W. Va.; James T. Kolter, 21, Piqua; Gary D. Kline, 35, Germantown; Dwight A. Chester, 51, Chillicothe; Jacqueline Nelson, 25, Cincinnati; Evelyn A. Smith, 39, Dayton; Vincent F. Scibana, 53, Bedford Hts.

FRIDAY — Stewart D. Merchant, 37, Kettering; Herbert S. Taylor, 45, Senecaville, driving while intoxicated.

Happy days are here again.

93 miles per hour? We obviously don't recommend it, but it is reassuring to know that as you get onto a hectic expressway, a new Volkswagen Rabbit Hatchback has the power for incredible acceleration. From 0 to 50 in only 8.2 seconds. Quicker than a Monza 2+2.

38 miles per gallon? That's what the Rabbit averaged on the highway in the 1975 model Federal Environmental Protection Agency fuel economy tests. The Rabbit in the city averaged a nifty 24. Not bad for a sub-compact with all the interior room of some mid-size cars.

$2,999? That's what you pay for the car backed by the most complete and advanced car coverage plan in the business: The Volkswagen Owner's Security Blanket with Computer Analysis.

Happy days are here again? We think you'll think so after you've driven a Rabbit.

Nepal's new king crowned

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Seated cross-legged on his dynastic throne under a canopy of nine golden cobras, Nepal's young absolute monarch received the plumed crown of his Himalayan kingdom in a Hindu ritual.

"For the welfare of the people, I am about to crown you," the High Priest of the realm chanted today as the sun dissipated a mountain mist over a tiny inner courtyard of the carved-wood royal palace.

"For the welfare of the people, I am ready to be the king," 29-year-old Birendra Bir Bikram Shah Deva responded. "I will be popular like the raindrop. I will be friendly like the sun."

As a royal astrologer with a big pocket watch signaled the propitious moment of 8:37 a.m., the priest placed the jeweled crown on the head of the 10th ruler in the 200-year-old Shah dynasty.

Birendra, who has been running the country since the death of his father, King Mahendra, in January 1972, assumed the title "Incarnation of Vishnu, King of Kings, the Five Times Godly, Valorous Warrior and Divine Emperor."

Wearing a diamond-studded crown, 25-year-old Queen Aishwarya Rajya Laxmi Devi Shah sat beside her Harvard-educated husband on the throne draped with skins of a bull, a wildcat, a leopard, a lion and a tiger.

More than 100 foreign representatives, including Prince Charles of Britain and Crown Prince Akihito of Japan, looked on as Birendra sat with regal calm and the palace band played a cacophonous Hindu hymn.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, the Illinois Republican and former camera manufacturer, moved about the courtyard in his morning suit taking movies of the ceremony.

A bevy of white-clad priests with yellow satin caps shuffled about the king, sprinkling him with holy water, purified butter, milk and curd as a priest read an 80-verse section of the Vedic scriptures on which the coronation is based.

"You are the womb of the rule," he chanted. "You are the vagina of the rule. You are the umbilical cord of the rule."

Members of the royal family and the government filed before the king and queen to pay obeisance and drop coins of tribute at their feet. First in line was 3-year-old Crown Prince Deependra Bir Bikram Shah Dev, who saluted his father and staggered under the weight of his military uniform and royal robes.

Cortland man drowns

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The Trumbull County sheriff's office reported Donald Markus, 42, of Cortland, drowned Sunday after his car ran off a highway and plunged into Mosquito Lake.

Opening lead - queen of hearts.

The year Edgar Kaplan won the Life Masters Individual he reported the tournament for the Bridge World magazine.

The Individual is a special event where the participants take turns playing with each other, as contrasted with pair and team events where you play steadily with a partner of your own choice.

In playing with a succession of strange partners, some of whom have weird flights of fancy, almost anything can happen — and does. Said Kaplan in his report:

"There are three factors in winning such an event: you must play reasonably well; you need lots of fortitude; and you must be enormously lucky. Luck is the theme of this article, as it should be in describing an Individual."

After showing hands in which he was both lucky and unlucky, Kaplan came to this deal from the final session.

"This was the luckiest of all. As South, I hold no brief for my partner's three notrump bid, although it won the tournament for me. I had done all I could to scream that my hand was worthless except at clubs. But there I was in three notrump. 'I won the heart queen in dummy, East's king falling. I led the nine of clubs (not the seven) to my king, losing to the ace. West played a diamond, the jack forcing the ace. A diamond return rode to the king. Now I led a club, finessed the eight, and scored ten tricks for a top. 'You see, I was lucky enough to have Norman Kay on my left. Norman has never made so bad a play as winning the first club if he could hold up, so the finesse was marked. 'Obviously, the secret of winning Individuals is to make sure your opponents are more expert than your partners!'"

Speaking of Your Health... Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The Persistent Fever

My sister has had bouts of fever for almost a year. She has had all kinds of tests, but there is still no answer. Can't this fever eventually make her a chronic invalid?

Miss H.J.H., Ohio

Dear Miss H.: One of the most baffling problems that physicians face is fever of unknown origin.

Even after exhaustive tests, the exact cause may still be elusive. Examination of the blood, cultures of the throat, stool studies for infection and parasites may give some clue to sustained fever.

Amoebic dysentery, rheumatic fever, malaria, typhoid fever, typhus, phlebitis, liver disease, intestinal infections, and even skin disorders can be responsible for frustrating, persistent fever.

Eventually, the cause for your sister's problem will be found by the coordinated efforts of physicians in many specialties. The fever itself will probably not be the reason for "chronic invalidism." The underlying cause for the fever is the real threat to health.

There are now government agencies and Public Health teams that are especially trained to test for and find the most bizarre reasons for fever of unknown origin.

Occasionally, diseases thought to exist only in tropical and sub-tropical climates do occur in the United States.

Occupational hazards that affect the lungs also must not be ruled out as a cause for this most annoying and debilitating condition.

Every few months my daughter goes on a banana and milk diet. She does, indeed, lose weight quickly. Can this be harmful?

Mrs. T.E.F., Va.

Dear Mrs. F.: Bananas are easily digested, they are palatable and highly nutritious. In combination with milk, such a diet is high in mineral and vitamin content.

The hunger-satisfying qualities of this combination are important to those driven to eat by "hunger pains." The greatest advantage of such a diet is, as with all diets, the reduction of the caloric intake.

If your daughter chooses this diet for short periods of time, and with her doctor's permission, it may be for her the simplest method of achieving rapid weight reduction.

Six persons killed in weekend weather

By The Associated Press

At least six persons were killed and thousands of homes destroyed as a series of weekend tornadoes swept through the South and Oklahoma.

Authorities said one person died at Tuscaloosa, Ala., where a tornado struck early Sunday afternoon. At least 50 persons were injured and hundreds more left homeless, officials said.

Two other twisters touched down in Mississippi, causing extensive property damage in some areas. Heavy winds caused damage to several homes in Mt. Juliet, Tenn., and Burlington, N.C.

In Arkansas, law enforcement agencies and private assistance groups spent Sunday searching for more victims of the series of tornadoes that cut across that state Saturday. So far, the storms have claimed at least one life.

A Red Cross spokesman estimated that 175 homes were totally or substantially destroyed. Electric company officials said more than 200 homes were without electrical power Sunday.

Saturday's combination of tornadoes and heavy snow in central and western Oklahoma resulted in four deaths.

Damage was estimated at between $6 to $8 million alone in Duncan, where 17 mobile homes were destroyed and 3,900 houses were either demolished or heavily damaged, authorities said.

The eastern section of Oklahoma was not hit hard by the twisters but did receive from 3 to 12 inches of snow.

While warm temperatures are expected to melt most of the snow in Oklahoma, heavy snow warnings continue for much of Missouri, eastern Iowa, Illinois and southern Wisconsin. Elsewhere, showers and thundershowers continue over southern Michigan and much of the Ohio Valley south to the Gulf Coast and into the Mid-Atlantic Coast region. Rain was also reported in southern New England and the Pacific Northwest.

Temperatures early today ranged from 3 degrees at Watertown, S.D., to 78 at Key West, Fla.

Ohio road toll reaches six

By The Associated Press

At least six persons died on Ohio's highways over the weekend, the highway patrol reported.

All were killed in separate accidents. Two were pedestrians.

The six deaths compared with five the previous weekend, which was the lowest toll in four months.
